

IP-Driven Growth Strategies

Business growth follows many paths. Effectively advising growth-stage companies (whether in technology, retail, media, services or heavy industrial segments) requires a combination of deep experience, strategic vision and a holistic understanding of the business and legal issues unique to growing companies. Regardless of the path to growth, an appropriate cost-effective intellectual property strategy is paramount.

Our firm partners with these growth-stage companies to provide ongoing, and often evolving, IP strategy that is appropriate for the company's industry sector, stage of maturity and fundraising plans.

We invest our time with great companies and great ideas, taking a practical, entrepreneurial approach to work with our clients from the true start-up stage through growth, maturity and, ultimately, exit.

Our Services

Our specific expertise includes the food and restaurant industry, retail products, manufacturers, marketers, app developers, software and technology-based services companies (SaaS), and many others. We understand the challenges and opportunities unique to start-up and growth-stage companies, and provide effective strategies for turning a great idea into a flourishing, sustainable business.

- + IP strategy: customized to your industry, technology, competitive landscape, and resource availability; patent issues; brand (trademark) protection; contract negotiation
