

Real Estate Financing

Our lawyers serve as counsel to lenders and borrowers involved in the financing of real estate projects throughout the region and nationwide. The value we bring to these clients stems from our decades of experience in lending transactions, combined with our commitment to providing efficient and cost-effective legal services. This deep experience we've gained by working on both sides of lending transactions means that we understand the market dynamics at play and the most critical compromise points.

We strive to understand a borrower's business so we can provide the most effective advice to our client in the context of the borrower's particular business model. For borrowers and developers, we have become so interwoven with many of our clients as outside general counsel that we serve as members of their risk management teams, helping to negotiate the key points where they can afford to compromise and the stands they need to take regarding critical transaction points.
