

Medical Marijuana: IMPACT on the WORKPLACE

Balancing Employer Policies
with the Use of Prescribed
Medical Marijuana

CAHU

Columbus Association of Health Underwriters

Tuesday, December 12, 2017 | 3 - 5 p.m.

Attendees Welcome to
CAHU's HOLIDAY RECEPTION
Immediately Following This Event!

As Ohio prepares for the legalization of medical marijuana, a whole new set of challenges arise for employers. Join your colleagues and friends of the Columbus Association of Health Underwriters for a lively, eye-opening discussion of the pros and cons of legalized, medical marijuana and its impact on the workplace.

Panelists:

Nino Dilullo, MD, MBA

Dr. Dilullo's work has focused on emergency, urgent care, addiction, and family medicine. His interest in the brain chemistry of addiction has led him to pursue opportunities in medical marijuana and he has participated in numerous medical conferences on cannabis including the Cannamed 2017 Conference at Harvard University and the Medical Cannabis Education Symposium held recently in Columbus, Ohio.

Lloyd Pierre-Louis

Mr. Pierre-Louis is an attorney with Kegler Brown Hill + Ritter. He provides lobbying and public policy advocacy for clients' interests before the state legislature and executive agencies. Lloyd's efforts have resulted in multiple bills being passed and enacted in areas that include local government, public housing, commercial activity, gaming, medical marijuana and healthcare. He has authored a number of articles on the Ohio Medical Marijuana Act.

Courtney Meyers

Ms. Meyers is CEO of Movanti of Denver, Colorado, focusing on a modern approach to human resources, rooted in organizational culture, employee engagement to assist employers in achieve their goals. For the last few years, she has been providing employee recruitment and fractional human resource services to employers of the cannabis industry. This work targets the elimination of friction by the development of human resource processes and systems.

Tom Sico

As assistant General Counsel with Ohio BWC, Mr. Sico advises the Bureau on the impact of the H.B. 523 law on the employers participating in the Drugfree Safety Program (which he created). He is also Adjunct Instructor at Columbus State Community College, teaching Torts and Contracts and E-Discovery. He is a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the OSU Moritz College of Law.

Your moderator will be Sandra Moody Gresham, Immediate Past President, CAHU, Principal, Dehan Enterprises Insurance & Financial Services, LLC.

The Grand Event Center at Grandview Yard

820 Goodale Blvd
Columbus, OH 43212

Holiday Bonus!

All attendees are welcome to join CAHU immediately following this event for the CAHU Holiday Reception, which runs from 5 till 7 p.m.!

We will have The Solutions Band who are well versed in various genres of music, including Classic R&B, R&B, Gospel, Classic Rock and Pop. When you have seasoned well-traveled musicians and an amazing well known lead singer, any genre of music is easily mastered. That's what you get with The Solutions Band: well mastered amazing music.

CAHU Members: $35
Non-Members $45

Registration and Information:
marijuanaintheworkplace.eventbrite.com or call (614) 436-6124
ColumbusAHU.org